Z.O.A. Opposes Magnes Plan For Palestine

The Zionist Organization of America went on record as opposing the reported plan of Dr. Judah L. Magnes, president of the Hebrew University at Jerusalem and a leader of the new Ihud party in Palestine, advocating the formation of a bi-national State in Palestine, in a statement of policy adopted at a special meeting of its National Executive Committee held under the chairmanship of Judge Louis M. Levinthal, president.

Characterizing the views that have been credited to Dr. Judah L. Magnes in reports to the American press concerning the future of Palestine as "wholly at variance with the American Zionist position," the statement warns against "unauthorized political negotiations by Dr. Magnes and his associates."

Asserting that the "crux of the issue is the large-scale immigration of European Jews after the war, their right of free entrance into Palestine and their settlement there under self-governing conditions," the National Executive reaffirms the resolution of the Zionist conference in New York, May 9, which demanded that "the gates of Palestine be opened to Jewish immigration and that Palestine be established as a Jewish Commonwealth integrated in the structure of the new democratic world."

Chiding by name the group of the organization in Palestine, the National Executive declared that "no plan [illegible] which does not clearly and [illegible] the objectives [illegible]

EXECUTION OF BLUM PROPOSED

According to the German radio, a proposal on the agenda of the Congress of the quisling Doriot's party to take place in Paris this month is the immediate execution of MM. Blum, Mandel, and Daladier. Doriot, it adds, drew up the agenda himself.

M. Felix Gouin, Deputy for Aix-en-Provence, who was M. Blum's counsel during the (now indefinitely adjourned) Riom "war guilt" trial, and who managed to escape to London, told the News Chronicle recently that M. Blum was full of courage. He was "full of admiration for General de Gaulle," and considered the Allied victory was certain.

When M. Blum was still free, said M. Gouin, and there were rumours of his forthcoming arrest, friends made plans for his secret departure. He would not accept. "I am a public man, the chief of a great party. My duty is to remain here, whatever may happen to me," was his final reply.

"His great fight at Riom," added M. Gouin, "has had considerable repercussions. He has received thousands of letters, postcards, and telegrams of congratulation."

Rumanian Jews Hunted In France And At Home

Paris police arrested about 4,000 Rumanian Jews, both men and women, and made a house-to-house search of dwellings where Rumanian Jews lived. Most of those arrested were found at home. They were taken to an internment camp at Drancy, near Paris, in police trucks.

Other foreign Jews in occupied France had been rounded up, starting three months ago, but action against the Rumanian Jews was delayed until the Rumanian government enacted a special law under which they could be arrested.

Monsignor Chattal, a bishop of Paris, is wearing a Star of David as a protest against the measures taken by the French authorities against the Jews, a dispatch to the Berne newspaper "Die Nation" said. The example of his "dangerously personal gesture," the dispatch said is being followed by many other clergymen and by nuns, "creating a powerful impression on the people."

Parallel with the announcement by the Rumanian Minister of the Interior that not a single Jew will be left in Rumania by autumn, 1943, the Government appointed a special commissioner last month to arrange for the Jews' deportations. The Central Jewish Bureau in Bucharest has been ordered to prepare a register of all Jews for deportation purposes.

Jews in the smaller towns were concentrated in the larger towns. Bucharest now has 97,000 Jews. Over 20,000 male Jews have already been deported from the city to [illegible]

[illegible] September, 1942, [illegible] been ordered to return to their place of origin.

Jassy now has about 34,000 Jews, Galatz and Bacau 13,000 each, and Timisoara and Piatra-Neamtz 11,000 each. In the Czernowitz ghetto are concentrated about 16,000 Jews, all doing forced labour. House-to-house searches are carried out in Jewish quarters everywhere, and Jews found to have changed their assigned domicile or to be evading forced labour regulations are being deported to Russian territory.

"The Government," says a Nazi paper, "aims at making this the next country to be able to announce that it is completely purified of the last traces of Jewish contamination."

DANISH STUDENTS DEMONSTRATE FOR JEWS

An amazing pro-Jewish demonstration has taken place in Gjerlev, Denmark, in connection with the local traditional students' festival.

The Danish students invited a number of Jewish students to take part in their festival. In honour of their Jewish guests, the Danish male students wore blue-white caps, and the girl students wore blue blouses and white skirts. A blue-white flag with the Shield of David emblem was carried in procession through the town side by side with the Danish flag, and a place of honor was allotted to the Jews on the platform at the students' meeting. At the conclusion of the proceedings, the band played Hatikvah and the Danish National Anthem.

The pro-Nazis, infuriated, described it as an affair "organized by the Jews with the aid of Danish Communists."

Nazis Extend Areas Of Jewish Destruction

The Bulgarian Government approved the draft of a decree worsening the anti-Jewish provisions of the recent Law for the Protection of the Nation. The new decree amounts to the introduction of the Nuremberg Laws.

According to Nazi reports, a Commissariat for Jewish Affairs, affiliated to the Ministry of the Interior, has been established to supervise the implementation of the decree and to exercise control over Jewish schools, synagogues, and charitable institutions.

The wearing the Yellow Star is compulsory for all Jews, but in addition, a red circle is introduced for Bulgarian Jews who distinguished themselves during the last war, and for Jews of foreign nationality. The category of "privileged" Jews, which was created under the original law, is curtailed to include only those decorated for bravery, as well as war invalids and war orphans. The Nazi idea of "racial pollution" which hitherto has been unknown in Bulgaria, is adopted under the new decree. Inter-marriages of Jews and non-Jews are forbidden. New restrictions limit still further the housing space for Jews, and the amount of food Jews can buy.

Finally, the decree confirms the decision of the Government to make Sofia "Judenrein."

All Jews had to leave Sofia by September 15, according to an order of the Bulgarian Ministry of the Interior. They were sent either to the ghetto which was created in a suburb of the capital, or to ghettoes in provincial towns. They took with them only 200 Rs. of their belongings.

Refugee Aid In Spain Augmented

Additional funds are being rushed to Spain to meet the emergencies arising out of continued influx of refugees fleeing there from France, it was reported by the Joint Distribution Committee. Hundreds of new arrivals are [illegible]

[illegible] prisoned, said a cable received by the Committee from Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, Chairman of its European Executive Council in Lisbon.

The J.D.C.'s budget for work in Spain, which has already totalled $180,500, thus far in 1942, is being increased to $22,500 monthly. A special grant for the purchase of winter clothing in behalf of the internees in the Miranda Camp has also been made. Many of the refugees there have been imprisoned since the summer of 1940 when they were apprehended after having illegally crossed the Spanish border following the fall of France.

The J.D.C. has been making regular grants to provide these internees with supplementary food, clothing and small comforts. It has also been supporting their wives and children, who are prohibited from engaging in any form of gainful occupation in Spain and are in danger of imprisonment themselves should they become public charges. Spain continues to serve as an important country of transit for refugees leaving Europe, it was pointed out, thus making it doubly important

J.D.C. Transports 270 Children To Palestine

Two hundred and seventy children will be removed from the Nazi satellite lands of Hungary and Rumania, and brought to havens in Palestine, as a result of a triple-play rescue move involving the Joint Distribution Committee, the Hadassah and the International Red Cross, it was announced by Joseph C. Hyman, [illegible] Vice-Chairman of the [illegible]

[illegible] under the supervision of the International Red Cross, have already received transit visas through Turkey. Their transportation from Turkey to Palestine is being defrayed by the Joint Distribution Committee, which has just made a grant of $13,000 for this purpose.

Palestine certificates for the children were secured by the Hadassah, which, as part of its Youth Aliyah program, guaranteed education and two years' maintenance for the children in Palestine. The children will be settled in co-operative communities, where they will be given a two-year course in agriculture, after which they will become self-supporting.

Movement of other Palestine-bound refugees now in Turkey is continuing, Mr. Hyman said, in announcing a further grant by the J.D.C. of $14,000 to cover transportation costs of 300 refugees now in Turkey, who have immigration certificates. Thousands of refugees have found their way to Palestine during the past decade, thanks to the help of the J.D.C., which has spent some $2,500,000 since the advent of Hitler for transportation of refugees to Palestine and for their vocational training in preparation for emigration.

Council Of Jews And Christians Formed In London

The formation of a Council of Christians and Jews to combat religious and racial intolerance and to promote mutual understanding and good will was announced by England's five top-ranking churchmen, who will act as the council's joint presidents. They are the Most Rev. William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury; the Rev. John C. MacKay, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland; Dr. J. H. Whale, moderator of the Free Church Federal Council; the Very Rev. Joseph H. Hertz, chief rabbi of the United Hebrew Congregations of the British Empire, and Arthur Cardinal Hinsley, Archbishop of Westminster.

"In the forefront of their efforts to create division within every community, the Nazis have always placed anti-Semitism, which is repugnant to the moral principles common to Christianity, and Judaism alike," the presidents' statement said. "We cannot afford to ignore the effects of the steady propagation of this evil throughout the world. It is not only a menace to the unity of every community in which it takes root, but it is the very negation of those values on which alone we believe that a new and better world can be established."

The council also aims to promote fellowship between Christian and Jewish youth organizations and to foster co-operation of Christians and Jews in post-war reconstruction.

Ashes Of Justice Brandeis Buried

Ashes of the late Louis D. Brandeis, former Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, were buried in Kentucky beneath the porch of the University of Louisville Law School on October 5th, the first anniversary of his death. The interment service was brief and simple with Dr. Raymond A. Kent, president of the university, as the only speaker.

Immediately after service, those attending proceeded to the near-by Speed Memorial Museum where a bust of the late jurist by Eleanor Pratt of New York, similar to the one presented to the Supreme Court the same day by the American Bar Association, was unveiled.

The university has received scores of papers and documents belonging to Justice Brandeis for its library and archives, many presented before his death, as well as his personal library.

Attending the burial service were Justice Brandeis's daughter, Mrs. Paul Raushenbush, of Madison Wis.; his son-in-law, John Gilbert; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Brandeis, and several nieces.

Dr. [illegible] Rabbi Dies In N.Y. Exile

The Rev. Dr. Hermann Vogelstein, former chief rabbi of the Liberal Synagogue in Breslau, who had long been one of the Jewish leaders in Germany, died in New York at his residence, 315 Central Park West, after an illness of several weeks. He was seventy-two year olds.

Born in Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, Dr. Vogelstein received his higher education at the Universities of Berlin and Breslau. He was rabbi in the Liberal Synagogue in Koenigsberg, Germany, for twenty-three years, from 1897 until 1920, when he assumed the post at Breslau. There, during the anti-Semitic outbursts of 1938, he saw his synagogue dynamited and in flames.

Dr. Vogelstein's final departure from Germany took place in 1938 with full observance of the government's requirements. He went first to London, then came to New York, arriving in January, 1939. Here he had been an active mem-sued by a pro-Nazi Mayor in a Budapest borough forbidding the sale of milk to Jews. As a result of strong protests both by Hungarian Labor and by the farmers themselves against the order, the Ministry of the Interior has been forced to withdraw it, although it rejected the demand of the protesters that the Mayor should be dismissed for exceeding his authority.

Difficulties resulting from the ousting of the Jews from their position in the economic life of the country are admitted in the Magyar economy. It says that the Minister of Propaganda has issued an appeal to the population to take over positions which the Jews have been forced to give up. "Hungarians must not be nervous or hesitant," says the appeal. "They must learn to assume responsibility."

Large numbers of Rumanian Jews recently arrived in the Hungarian zone of Transylvania (the Rumanian territory annexed by Hungary) in order to escape deportation to Rumian territory occupied by Rumanian troops or internment in Rumanian forced labor camps. The Hungarian police have now organized mass raids on the refugees, and large numbers have already been detained. In Cluj, over 400 refugees, including women and children, were arrested and sent to a concentration camp.

The Warsaw Nazi Commissioner, Fischer, has appointed three Nazis, including a notorious Jew-baiter named Dr. Steinfurt, to administer the affairs of the Jewish ghetto community.

Immediately after the tragic suicide of M. Czernikow, the head of the ghetto community (who took his life rather than agree to more deportations of Jews to the East), the Jewish Communal Council was dissolved and a Nazi was appointed to take over its functions. It was then understood that a new Communal Council would soon be selected, but apparently, Fischer intends his new Nazi trio to remain in charge of ghetto affairs for some time.

A wave of suicides in the Warsaw ghetto has followed the death of Mr. Czernikow. Faced with fear of deportation, meaning certain misery and almost certain death, whole families have committed suicide together. The Rabbis have issued an appeal to the Jews to refrain from such acts, and to exhibit traditional Jewish courage in enduring persecution.

The Nazi Governor-General of Poland, Frank, has ordered Jewish Communal Council in the ghettoes to conduct a special registration of all male inhabitants aged 16 to 50, in order to find whether any deserters from the German forces are hiding in the ghettoes.

Frank's order stated that according to information received, a number of deserters were in hiding and were wearing the Jewish Star of David badges and using the identity papers of deported and killed German Jews. Lodz ghetto was under particular suspicion.

So far, 104 deserters have been found, including one officer and several N.C.O.'s. They were tried by a Nazi military tribunal and executed.

that the situation of refugees there be kept under control.

The inordinately high cost of living in Spain makes refugee maintenance there relatively more expensive than in almost any country. Spanish laws prohibit the formation of any Jewish committee or organization which might take care of refugees on a collective basis. Consequently they have had to be maintained at almost individual tourist rates, a factor which has substantially added to the cost of relief. Present indications, Dr. Schwartz has stated, are that even the $22,500 monthly now being appropriated by the J.D.C. for refugee aid in Spain will not be sufficient, and additional funds may have to be granted.

Announcement

Josef Berljawsky, who will conduct a course in music appreciation at his studio, is a concert violinist, formerly of Vienna, having received the artist diploma of the Academy of Music in Vienna where he later studied musicology at the University of Vienna. He was formerly soloist with Radio Vienna and with the famous Musica Viva Orchestra. He taught violin and theory there and is now a resident of Montreal with a studio at 1420 Stanley Street. The course on music appreciation will acquaint those who take it with how music developed; commonly used musical instruments and expressions; and related subjects. Date of opening will be announced.

MARRIAGES

Gomin-Faith

The marriage of Edith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Faith, Palmerston Avenue, to Sydney, son of Mrs. Gomin and the late M. Gomin, took place on October 4th, at the home of the bride's parents, Cantor A. Bernstein officiating. The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore an Afternoon dress of pink wool with matching hat and shoulder-length veil, and carried a nosegay of roses and sweetpeas. Miss Gertrude Faith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, in blue wool, with matching hat, and nosegay of roses and sweetpeas. Joseph Gomin, brother of the groom, was best man. A buffet supper followed for about one hundred guests, the bride's mother receiving, in a black crepe dress trimmed with gold beading, and corsage of roses, with the groom's mother who wore a two-piece black dress, and corsage of pink roses. The couple left for Montreal, the bride wearing a blue suit, coat, and matching accessories. They will live in Toronto.

Hershfield-Siegel

The marriage of Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Siegel, 383 Grace Street, to Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hershfield, 356 Montrose Avenue, formerly of Winnipeg, was solemnized at the home of Rabbi Samuel Sachs, on September 4th, who officiated. The bride wore a blue dress, with matching accessories. The couple left for Port Stanley, and are living at 14 Herbert Avenue. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hershfield, of Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Monk Hershfield and family, of Fort William.

Sugarman-Freedman

In Claxton Hall, Westminster, Miss Ray Freedman, of Edinburgh, youngest daughter of M. Freedman and the late Mrs. Freedman, became the bride of Sergeant-Observer Ben. Sugarman, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Sugarman, Queen Street East, Toronto, on October 2nd. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her pale blue dress had a matching jacket of silk, and three-quarter length sleeves embroidered with self-colored flowers. She had a brown off-the-face hat, with veiling, brown shoes and brown three-quarter-length gloves, and carried a corsage of brown orchids. Miss Betty Freedman, sister of the bride, was her attendant. Captain George Trimble, of Toronto, of the Army Medical Corps of the United States, was best man. Following the wedding reception, a luncheon was served at Pascall's in Oxford Street, and later the couple left on a wedding trip to Carbis Bay in Cornwall. Twenty-three guests included Frederick Griffin, Flight-Lieutenant Tim Reid, Flight-Lieutenant Albert Glaser, D.F.C., Flight-Sergeant McSmith, Pilot Officer and Mrs. A. Brenner, and Pilot-Officer Louis Somers, all of Toronto; Sergeant Pilot Bert Kepinsky, of Hamilton, and Gerry Erskine, of Canadian Military headquarters, at Windsor.

Kudlets-Axmith

The marriage of Sylvia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Axmith, 238 Dundas Street West to Samuel, son of Louis Kudlets and the late Mrs. Kudlets, of Hamilton, took place on October [illegible] at Chudleigh House, Rabbi David Monson officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. Her gown of white satin was fashioned on torso lines, with a long train, and her full-length veil of illusion tulle fell from an embroidered, appliqued crown which was an heirloom sent from England by the groom's aunt. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses. Miss Sylvia Kudlets, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, in a pink taffeta gown, and carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses. Misses Bella Kudlets in blue taffeta and Lillian Axmith, in rose taffeta, were bridesmaids, both with cascade bouquets of pink roses. Saul Lachter, of Hamilton, was best man, and the ushers were: Sydney Kudlets, Hyman Kudlets, and Walter Strom. A dinner and reception followed. The bride's mother wore a gown of black net, and corsage of roses. The couple left later on a trip to New York, and will live in Hamilton.

Refugees Aid U.S. War Effort

Coveted Army-Navy "E" lapel emblems for achievement in war production were received by three refugees who have suffered at Nazi hands, two of them in concentration camps, and who now participate in America's all-out war production effort against the Axis.

The three, Leopold Prinz, Joseph Schirmer, and Oswald Grief, were assisted to secure their jobs by the National Refugee Service, a beneficiary of the United Jewish Appeal for Refugees, Overseas Needs and Palestine. They were among the workers of the Abott Fluorescent Co., 69 West Houston Street, New York, which was awarded an Army-Navy "E" pennant. Prinz and Schirmer were both once imprisoned in Nazi concentration camps.

Representatives of the Army and Navy who made the award presentation at the plant, told the refugees and other workers that "you, too, are soldiers in the struggle for democracy." Harry Rosenthal, president of the company which received the award, praised his refugee workers as "among the best." City Councilman Stanley M. Isaacs, chairman of the Retraining Committee of the National Refugee Service, which in recent years has refitted more than 2,000 refugees with useful industrial and occupational skills now sorely needed by American employers, was there. Over 500 refugees have been retained since Pearl Harbor.

Two of the three refugees, all of whom perform manual work, are elderly men. Leopold Prinz, 53, was formerly a lawyer in Berlin and consultant for the manufacturer's association of that city, while Joseph Schirmer, 56, had his own manufacturing business in Dresden, making auto oils and furniture polishes.

Fifty Jews Build Outpost At Gath

On the site of the ancient city of Gath, which has lain waste for many centuries, fifty Jews are building one of the newest outposts in Palestine. Their settlement has been financed by the United Palestine Appeal with funds raised by the United Jewish Appeal for Refugees, Overseas Needs and Palestine.

Obstacles in the path of the youthful settlers loomed as great as victory seemed distant to the legions of King Saul when, on that almost legendary day, the giant Goliath of Gath stepped out of the walls of his native city to challenge the Israelites to battle. The "curse of Goliath" seemed to be on the new settlement, when the first well-boring yielded only three hours, hardly enough for drinking and cooking.

But the youngsters remembered that Goliath had been slain by a pebble aimed at just the right spot. So they chose another spot for their well and dug again. Celebrations were in order because the new well gushed forth with 45 cubic meters of water an hour, enough to irrigate hundreds of dunams of the 5,500 dunams of Jewish National Fund land allotted to the new settlement.

THIS IS THE RIGHT WAY TO TAKE YOUR VITAMIN B.

• Most diets are lacking in Vitamin B. The natural food supplement to provide an adequate amount of the Vitamin B Complex is "Tonik" Wheat Germ. It is an excellent source of the "B" Vitamins.

• Don't expect to get results if you take bulk raw wheat germ. "Tonik" is the only wheat germ on the market which is stabilized to maintain its flavour and vitamin value indefinitely.

• For normal needs, Ogilvie "Tonik" costs less than 2c per day. It is sold at drug and grocery stores in 24 oz. and 12 oz. sizes.

IT'S "OGILVIE"—IT'S GOOD!

....Sorry folks, if there was not enough Ice Cream to go Around in September

Perhaps you tried to buy Joubert's ice cream in September — and found some to be had. Here are the facts of the situation.

This shortage of ice cream is quite general — however, on October 1st we expect to be delivering every Joubert dealer his regular quota, and, once again, you may enjoy the nutritive benefits of Joubert's Ice Cream.

Why do such shortages occur? For three general reasons:

First — Joubert is restricted in the amount of ice cream it can make. Only 70% of the sugar used in 1941 can be used for this year's production.

Second — there has been a much greater demand for Joubert's ice cream this year than ever before. With dealers on strict rations, this increased demand plays havoc and most dealers run out of ice cream before the month ends.

Third — to conserve on rubber and gasoline, dealer deliveries are restricted. If a dealer runs out of ice cream, he must wait for his next regular delivery day, even though his quota is not yet exhausted.

We, of J. J. Joubert Limitée, want to thank all of you—our customers and our dealers — for the splendid co-operation given us in meeting this shortage situation. We publish these facts concerning the ice cream shortage so that all concerned will understand how and why it occurs from time to time.

U.S. Hadassah Convention To Mark 30 Years Of Health Work For Palestine

Malaria, dysentery, typhoid and trachoma, endemic diseases which took almost as deadly a toll as bullets among the fighting men stationed in Palestine during the World War, are today only minor hazards for United Nations troops in that area, according to Mrs. David de Sola Pool, of New York, national president of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America. Hadassah will mark the completion of thirty years of "health pioneering" for the Holy Land at its convention at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York, from Oct. 14 to 18.

Since just before the World War, when Hadassah started its work by initiating a program of child care for the mothers and babies of Palestine, a pre-convention report reveals, the group has spent almost $13,000,000 for its varied hospitalization, public health and refugee projects there.

Quoting from a report cabled to the convention from Palestine, Mrs. Pool stated: "It is with great satisfaction that we can announce that control work in the field of malaria alone has greatly benefited the forces stationed in Palestine. The contrast between the incidence of malaria among troops stationed there during the last war, or among those stationed now in Syria, with that among the forces at present in Palestine is so striking that no comment is required. More than twenty years of malaria control have rendered Palestine the only country in this part of the world in which this infectious disease is of minor significance as a factor in troop morbidity."

Almost a thousand delegates are expected to attend Hadassah's five-day conclave to discuss means of broadening the contribution of their 85,000 senior members to the American war effort, to review internal Zionist political problems which have come to the fore recently, and to "accept enlarged budgets to permit Hadassah to extend and expand its present services in Palestine so that the Holy Land may continue to remain a health fortress for the United Nations troops," Mrs. Pool said.

She pointed out that a recent newspaper story from Jerusalem had admitted that "American troops are now beginning to filter in increasing numbers into Palestine and its environs." This means that Hadassah's thirty-year "investment in health" will have direct benefits for our American boys "who are helping to hold an American line of defense among the ancient streets and byways, the venerated hills and valleys of the Land of the Bible."

"We are proud that this American contribution which has been so carefully allocated in a land 6,000 miles from our frontiers is now beginning to pay dividends to our own citizens along a battle-front where we never dreamed Americans would some day have to fight for their national existence," Mrs. Pool stated.

In the field of malaria alone, experiments in the control of swamps began as far back as 1912, when the late Nathan Straus provided funds for experiments in the drainage of land.

In 1921 anti-malaria control took a big step forward when the late Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis, who had witnessed the ravages of malaria in Palestine, contributed a substantial sum. The Hadassah Medical Organization, which already was functioning in Jerusalem, called a conference during which a survey was planned and a series of experiments decided upon. Efforts were made to use the methods recommended by the international health board of the Rockefeller Foundation. Three centers were chosen in the Lower Galilee, comprising both Jewish and Arab villages. The data gathered became the basis for a further extension of work in this field. It showed that 25 per cent of all of the Jewish and 50 per cent of the Arab population were suffering from chronic malaria.

Within a brief period the incidence of the disease was reduced 80 to 90 percent in all localities.

The method was to drain breeding places for mosquitoes which had been permitted to form because of faulty irrigation. In the middle '30s Hadassah turned over its entire malaria service to the health department of Palestine. But in recent years, with the extension of colonization into previously uninhabited swamp sections, Hadassah again has begun to make subsidies to wipe out this scourge of both civilian and military populations, Mrs. Pool stated.

One of the first moves of Hadassah's War Emergency Committee, appointed at the outbreak of hostilities, was to make a survey to discover what other endemic diseases might assume epidemic proportions with the incursion of troops. Since typhoid is considered one of the most deadly menaces to military men entering that part of the world, the organization has granted a subsidy to extend preventive work in this field, too, Mrs. Pool said. It has set aside a special typhoid ward in its $1,000,000 medical center, the Rothschild-Hadassah University Hospital and Medical School on Mt. Scopus, Jerusalem, to "nip in the bud" any typhoid infections which may have begun to spread.

Hadassah is co-operating closely with the British and other United Nations medical corps stationed in Jerusalem by providing regular seminars and classes for Allied doctors. Audiences of almost one hundred United Nations physicians, scientists, nurses, sanitarians and dietitians are found at the center each month helping to further this form of "health insurance" for their fighting men.

Delegates attending the convention will be asked to expand their emergency feeding program, which now reaches 25,000 children daily; their hygiene project in the schools, and their child-welfare efforts through forty-eight stations. Two new stations, primarily for Arab children and mothers, have been opened in the last year in the village of Sameikh, outside of Tiberias, and in the northern Hulah area. Budgets totaling almost $1,500,000 for Hadassah's war work for the coming year are being recommended, Mrs. Pool said.

MARRIAGES

Barnack-Blackstein

The marriage of Sylvia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Blackstein, to Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Barnack, Palmerston Avenue, took place on August 30th, at Men of England Synagogue, Rabbi David Monson and Cantor Boris Charloff officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a gown of white brocaded satin fashioned on torso lines. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion fell from a bonnet of the same material as her gown and was trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of Butterfly roses. Miss Sarah Cohen, as maid of honor, wore a powder blue gown of net, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The bridesmaids, Misses Lillian Adler, in blue crepe and lace; Edith Fisher, in blue taffeta; Estelle Sugar, in blue net; and Mrs. John Abramovitz, in blue net all had bonnets fashioned like the bride's and carried nosegays of Talisman roses. Bernice Blackstein, as junior bridesmaid, wore a dress of blue taffeta, and the flower-girl, Carole Blackstein, wore a dress of pink taffeta. Airman Percy Kurtzer was best man, and the ushers were: Harry Gord, Murray Sugar, John Abramowitz, and Jack Kirzner. Shirley Palmer and Allan Blackstein were junior bride and groom, dressed like the wedding couple, and David Blackstein was ring-bearer. A dinner and reception followed, the bride's mother wearing a gown of turquoise crepe with sweetheart neckline and full skirt, and a corsage of American beauty roses; the groom's mother in rust colored suede lace and a corsage of Talisman roses. The couple left on a wedding trip to Montreal, and are living in Toronto. For travelling the bride wore a tweed suit and matching coat, green felt hat, and alligator purse and shoes. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. M. Richmond and family, and Mrs. S. Smith, of Portland, Maine; Mr. and Mrs. H. Gersh and Miss Fanny Gersh, of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Berger, of Windsor, Mrs. D. Kell, of New York; and I. Kramer, R.C.A.F., of Lachine, Quebec.

Alexander Besmertny, journalist, brother-in-law of the late Dr. Leon Bramson, was executed in Prague for high treason.

YOU slept well— that night didn't you?

BUT GEORGE WAS AT DIEPPE!

NICE FELLOW, GEORGE—he worked right beside you. Remember, you took him home for dinner one night. He made a great fuss over your kids—and your wife was pleased. And then, all of a sudden, he slipped away and joined up. Left his good job, his girl and his future. And he was at Dieppe, slogging up the beach in a murderous rain of steel—fighting for you and your wife and those kids of yours he played with. And that same night you slept well, didn't you . . . in a soft bed. But George didn't . . . And you're still got a good job—with more money, too.

And thinking about George, you worry about these things. You want to do more—not only for George who's fighting for the safety of your family . . . but you want to give your children a good head start in this their country, when the war's won.

Well, you can do both—if you put every dollar you can lay your hands on in the surest and soundest investment ever offered—Canada's Victory Bonds. What's more, you'll get a kick out of saving your money the Victory Bond way—in building for the future—in helping George defeat the Axis.

Remember, those Victory Bonds you buy aren't giving—they're lending the country of your adoption money to help protect you. That money will come back to you and yours with interest.

WORK—SAVE AND LEND FOR VICTORY!

A Christian Friend Of Israel

The Honourable Chief Justice Robert Greenshields, whose memorial service was held in Montreal, Wednesday, September 30th, was indeed a sincere friend of the Jewish people. No wonder that among the multitude that thronged St. George's Church to pay loving respect to this fine Christian gentleman and distinguished jurist, were present many leading citizens of the Jewish faith.

It was our privilege at numerous public functions to have met with the Chief Justice. At all times we wished to be in his presence to obtain from this revered sage words of wisdom ever clothed in some humorous anecdote rooted in classic teaching of one form or another.

The Chief Justice had great reverence for the Hebraic legacy and for the Jewish people. Possessed of unbounded sympathy, he never hesitated to attend Jewish functions and speak a word in due season. On the very night when God summoned him he had sent a message to the Jewish mass meeting held in the cause of aid to our Jewish brethren in the Soviet Union.

As we reflect upon the life of Robert Greenshields, so rich in splendid achievements, the memorable words of Ralph Waldo Emerson come to mind:

"Justice conquers evermore
And he who battles on her side
God, though he were ten times slain
Crowns him victor glorified,
Victor over death and pain."

God bless and hallow the memory of Robert Greenshields who in the best traditions of the prophets of Israel sought to direct men in the paths of justice and righteousness.

Religion In Axis Europe

What is the Nazi attitude toward religion? Herman Rauschnig in his "Hitler Speaks" quotes none other than Hitler on the subject: "The religions are all alike no matter what they call themselves. They have no future — certainly none for the Germans . . . For our people it is decisive whether they acknowledge the Jewish Christ-creed with effeminate pity — ethics, or a strong heroic belief in God in nature, God in our own people, in our destiny, in our blood . . . Leave the hair-splitting to others. Whether it's the old Testament or the New, or simply the sayings of Jesus, according to Houston Stewart Chamberlain — its all the same Jewish swindle. It will not make us free. A German Church, a German Christianity, is distortion. One is either a German or a Christian. You can not be both."

Thus the original Nazi attack on Jew and Judaism was but a prelude to the assault upon all religion. However, the Nazis at first very shrewdly avoided a frontal attack on Christianity. They at first fought Christian ideas of Jewish origin, desisting from direct persecution of organized Christianity. They awaited the day when the Nazi conquest would dominate much of Europe.

But there is no doubt that now the Nazis openly war upon Protestantism and Catholicism. Hence how meaningful is the startling Nazi document which President Roosevelt revealed to the world on October 21, 1941. Said he then: "It is a plan to abolish all existing religions — Protestant, Catholic, Mohammedan, Hindu, Buddhist and Jewish alike. The property of the Churches will be seized by the Reich. The cross and all other symbols of religion are to be forbidden . . . In place of the Bible the words of Mein Kampf will be imposed and enforced as Holy writ. And in the place of the cross of Christ will be put two symbols — the swastika and naked sword. The God of blood and iron will take the place of the God of love and mercy."

As one studies the documentary evidence of religion's persecution in Axis territories as set forth by the Inter-Allied Information Committee and the Institute of Jewish Affairs (branch of the World Jewish Congress) — one is convinced that the Nazis are out on a total effort, a deliberate effort at entirely obliterating all forms of belief and worship. It all has to do with an assault upon freedom of thought whether spiritual or temporal.

The Nazi methods in this regard vary. Religious publications are suppressed, churches and synagogues have been destroyed or converted for different purposes, such as the stabling of horses in social halls. Church dignitaries have been taken as hostages; priests and rabbis have been murdered, deported or sent to concentration camps and there tortured to death.

No wonder that Cardinal Hinsley preaching in Westminster Cathedral on November 30th, 1941, and referring to the persecution of Catholics said: "Nothing can surpass the thorough ruthlessness of the Nazi promotors of their new order. In Slovania, out of seven hundred priests of two dioceses only sixteen old priests are left in freedom — all church property is likewise confiscated and the valuable church vessels are looted — Nazi firing squads (in Serbia) are engaged in shooting Orthodox priests and so-called communists. Nearly all Church life in Orthodox Serbia is stamped out."

The Nazis have not only made every attempt to "dejudaise" Christianity but they link their mission with accomplishing physical as well as the spiritual destruction of Judaism, the mother of Christianity. Hence, the wholesale destruction of Synagogues all over Europe. Over 520 religious edifices were on fire in the Third Reich on the night of November 9th-10th, in 1938. That November pogrom goes down in Jewish history as the blackest and most mournful day in our modern tragedy. How shocking to read of the plunder-

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without rancor
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an author."

The increase in anti-Semitism in England is such that recently Neville Laski, K.C., former president of the Board of Jewish Deputies, suggested in a letter to the Manchester Guardian that the Ministry of Information undertake public instruction as to the social evil of anti-Semitism. In that atmosphere there occurred an incident in July which has excited and alarmed the Jewish community, of London in particular, as much, if not more, than ever before and which has not yet ceased to be of interest. One thing that served to keep it popping was a broadcast from Germany which quoted extensively from the speech of a Jewish official, made at the annual meeting of the Trades Advisory Council, a body of the Board of Deputies.

The speech in question was one on future policy, made by John Goodenday, chairman of the Textile Section of the Council, the purpose of which is to influence a man or firm without a sense of commercial morality to behave decently, and to establish good relations between Jewish and non-Jewish competitors. In the small bit from Mr. Goodenday's speech which was reported in the London Jewish Chronicle, he is quoted as having said that there were certain Jewish solicitors and accountants who take advantage of weak bankruptcy laws to advise their clients in such a way as to avoid the law. Before the meeting a news release which had been handed to the general press was widely publicized in scare headlines such as: "A Jewish Leader Talks Of Weak And Wicked Black Market Jews"; "Jewish Bankruptcy"; "Jews In The Black Market"; and "Synonymous Term, Jews And The Black Market." What Mr. Goodenday had said was that "unfortunately, among the mass of normally fair-minded British citizens, Jews and the black market has become a synonymous term."

The community was deeply shocked and dismayed at the way the general press exhibited its time-honored ability to select passages from a speech in such a way as to give a false impression of what was said. The Trades Advisory Council seemed to have changed. Once (in February) it was "the last body that would knowingly allow itself to act as a sounding board for anti-Jewish suspicions or defamation. Its labors consist in the solid, quiet, unobtrusive work of enlightenment, or correction, of timely interventions to prevent or dissipate misunderstanding, or efforts to foster fellowship and good will among Jews and non-Jews in the business world." In July, and still, it is being castigated as a menace of unlimited possibilities, an irresponsible body which craves the limelight of publicity.

The Chronicle takes the view that those who spoke at the annual meeting of the Trades Advisory Council were either stupid in not realizing the danger of their statements, or irresponsible if they did realize and still made them. But what really appalls the Chronicle is the use to which the general press put the Council report. Now, the paper has often been strongly condemnatory of the handful of black sheep that molest the security of the community, to the extent of having urged sanctions against wrong-doers many a time, and since the Chronicle is available to the general press at any time, the newspapers could often have taken material from it and presented it in such a way as to make it sensational copy.

It so happens that the paper published enough about the annual meeting of the Trades Advisory Council for the newspapers to have capitalized on, even though a little late. To be consistent in its feeling that if the secret session is good enough at times for the House of Commons it is good enough at times for the Jewish community, the Chronicle should not have printed a report of some views expressed at the annual meeting for fear they might fall into the wrong hands.

There seems to be something more to the whole situation than meets the eye. Community leaders were thrown into consternation not only because of the frightening newspaper headlines but by the aggressive spirit in which leaders of the Trades Advisory Council took matters into their own hands. This body was supposed to be of subsidiary and strictly executive status under the auspices of the Board of Deputies. Instead, it is now accused of flouting the authority of the representative Jewish body in England. In the presence of determined leaders of the Trades Advisory Council, the time-honored and august Board of Deputies seems to have the appearance of being outmoded, flabby and irresolute and at fault in the whole painful incident for failing to assert its authority in time.

There is even a suggestion of dirty work at the cross-roads. One head has rolled but it was only the head of a scapegoat and not every one is happy yet. There is talk of a "serious internal weakness" in the structure of the Council, whatever that means. The London Jewish Chronicle, which represents the conservative, influential element in the community, has called for the resignation of the chairman and entire executive of the Council and their replacement by "men of ripe experience in public affairs, of full knowledge of Jewish conditions, of sound and balanced outlook, men willing to maintain faithfully the status of the T.A.C. as a subordinate body and nothing more."

In other words, the conservative element is very much afraid of something. There is often a tendency in Jewish life for a group within a group to attain independence and then to break away, but in this case there seems to be a desire to seize power and to take over management of the affairs of the community. On the part of the Board of Deputies there is an attitude of compromise and appeasement toward the Council. There is a tussle going on, though, to the sound of labored breathing. And this is a time that invites all kinds of changes and transfers. As the man who was fired said at the Council meeting while he had his chance: "The Jews generally are dancing a minuet on the edge of disaster, and having arguments as to who shall, or who shall not, speak for Jewry."

"Give The Jew A Chance, Here In Canada"

By Rev. B. S. Murray, in The Sherbrooke Record

"Show me a Miracle," said Frederick the Great to his chaplain. "Sire, it is the Jews," answered the man of God. As an ambassador of God, I too, in a labor of love would stop, and wishing Jewish people a Happy New Year, pay a tribute of appreciative recognition to this wonderful people to whom you and I are indebted for so many things, not the least of which are the fundamentals of our own Christian religion.

Hitler in his cruel, brutal and inexcusable attack upon the Jews and their God, has thereby attacked your God and my God and accordingly brought us in dear togetherness. Sweet are the uses of adversity, for today Jew and Christian as never before, greet each other, not only as sons of a Common Father, but also as brothers in arms in a great liberating crusade.

This great people display an indomitable spirit, despite their world-wide suffering, and the great heroism of their soldiers fighting in the cause of freedom is at once the pride of us all. I believe as time goes on more cordial and intimate relationships and understanding will take place between Jew and Christian. Recently a Jew said to me: "I am a Jew and always expect to remain one, but I do not see why I cannot be both a Jew and a Christian."

Well, the Master was a Jew. His Disciples were Jews. His biographers were Jews. Thousands in the early Christian Church were Jews. To Simon Peter, a devout Jew, the Master said: "On this Rock will I build my Church." Our very calendar — B.C. and A.D. — is based on the birthday of Jesus the Jew. Of the Christians of the world 300,000,000 worship Jesus, a Jew, and 200,000,000 venerate Mary, a Jewess!

Great names adorn their race. For their great achievements in spiritual, moral and intellectual pursuits, history reveals that too often persecution, fire, the sword, the rack and the dungeon were their reward. Captured children, murdered men and ravished women were considered their birthright.

Blood and sweat, toil and tears is nothing new to them. Always they marched breast forward, not doubting that clouds would break! In these days when we anticipate a new day of brotherhood and peace, I like to re-read the story of the Jewish captivity and recapture their indomitable spirit. That pathetic remnant which returned to rebuild in tears, their ruined altars and outraged temples, did so because no material things were more real than their faith in God.

The lips which had long been silent by Babylon's bitter watercourses broke forth again in song: "For His Mercy Endureth Forever" (Ezra 3:11). Their secret —the amazing spiritual vitality of the ancient Jew who never questioned either the goodness or wisdom or mercy of God—challenges us in 1942, as we journey towards the sunrise of a new day of freedom, justice and fair play. In the same God we trust believing that "nothing is too hard for Him" (Jeremiah 32:17).

On their New Year's Day, Jews everywhere pause and in the quiet of their sanctuaries commune with God in fellowship with their brethren. As realists they take stock of themselves as they let the past year pass in solemn review before their inner vision, determined to draw lessons from the past and carry them forward into 5703. With penitential psalms, prayer and fasting, with the reading of the Torah and the sounding of the Shofar, they, one with the ages, prepare to go forth into the new year.

This stirring bugle call bids them pause "from eventide to eventide so that all earthly thoughts be sanctified in prayer as they together march onward, forward and upward to God. This first day of review and resolve is but a type day inaugurating a ten-day period of penitence culminating in the day of Atonement when they, with contrite hearts, in five penitential services, repent truly of their sins, petitioning "God to banish our fear, blot out our evil ways, open the door of grace, bid us enter there."

There is something intimate and beautiful about these five services wherein they remember not only themselves and their loved ones, but also those gone before. The sound of the Shofar (which precedes the benediction) bids them go forth in the name of God assured that "the Lord will bless their going out and their coming in from this time forth, even forever."

As Christians let us always remember the Jewish gift of the Old Testament which we share in common. It is a strong bond which binds us now and always. Beware, also, lest we forget, that righteousness is the distinctive Jewish contribution to our spiritual culture. Of right relations they are exponents. Our Golden Rule is one with their Golden Rule.

Nor must we be surprised when the practical Jews expect Christians to behave as Our Golden Rule, for we are very often, the only New Testament many of the Jews read! It is therefore Christians and not Christianity, that staggers the Jews! Let us then be kindly in our attitude towards them. When prone to criticize them, pause, count ten, and think if we were Jews, what then? What they have undergone at the hands of Christians in Europe would stagger us if the conditions were reversed.

Give the Jew your chance. Now, in Canada. In the fellowship of suffering we are one. As they, in Germany wear a yellow and black star of David with the inscription "Jude," and, elsewhere suffer unmentionable humiliations, let us in Canada not only let live, but live and help to live a four-square, abundant life. We owe that much to this great people who against great odds have achieved much that is creative, fine, noble and permanent.

May all intolerance, bigotry and narrowness toward the Jew die with the passing of the old order! May a new day of brotherhood and peace in which Jew and Christian together as friends renew their common loves of freedom, justice and fair-play forthwith arise; This is the only way that Canada, the Empire, and the world can be "mightier yet."

Of course, I know the Jew's faults — I know his virtues — they are both surprisingly like the Christian's — when I weigh them in the balance I am glad to extend my hand to my intensely human neighbor, the Jew, and wish him in the words of his ancient ritual for Rosh Hashonah, a New Year of blessing and prosperity, salvation and comfort, peace and contentment, of joys and of spiritual welfare; a year of virtue and fear of God. A year which finds the hearts of parents united with the hearts of the children. A year of God's pardon and favor. I salute Jews in Canada and elsewhere and wish them a Happy New Year!

COMMENTARIES

ing of Jewish libraries by the Nazis, the dissolution of Jewish communities, the liquidation of religious education, the driving of Jews into filthy ghettoes.

Surely in this tragic hour Protestant, Catholic, and Jew and all other believers in God stand united, must stand united, in defense of civilization. How comforting the message of the Bishop of Marseilles who wrote to Grand Rabbi Selzer: "I wish to express my deep indignation at the criminal and cowardly act committed last night against the Synagogue in Marseilles. Our moral sense cries out against such an outrage." How hopeful is the joint protest in the name of Dutch Catholics and Protestants recently made against the ruthless deportation of Jews from Holland. This protest, addressed to the Reich Commissar for the Netherlands, reads: "The sufferings which the execution of this measure will inflict on thousands of men, women, children and entire families, and the realization that it contravenes the profound moral and ethical feelings of the people of Holland, compel us urgently to request that this measure shall not become effective."

Jew and Christian, this historic hour indeed finds you both comrades in the war against the Nazi violation of the principles of righteousness and liberty embodied in the faith of Judaism and Christianity. How important it is, therefore, that we who live in the few lands where freedom yet prevails, that the Church and Synagogue, demonstrate their unity by practical co-operation in all lines of endeavor that will make for a United Religious Front.
